About Company

1

Deadly Community Connections - where our roots in Aboriginal heritage guide our vision and practices. Founded by our CEO, a proud Aboriginal leader, our agency in Spring Hill stands as a beacon of cultural integrity and professional expertise in the recruitment industry.

2

Our inception was driven by a need to revolutionise labour hire practices, emphasising not just expertise and development, but also a deep respect for culture and compassionate care. We understand that the soul of a successful business lies in its people. Therefore, we bring a unique blend of traditional wisdom and modern hiring methodologies to the table.

3

Our CEO's Aboriginal heritage has instilled in us a profound appreciation for the cultural values and perspectives that shape an organisation. This understanding is at the heart of our approach, ensuring we don't just match skills with requirements, but align candidates with the cultural and ethical fabric of your team.

4

At Deadly Community Connections, we offer more than staffing solutions; we offer a partnership that respects and cherishes the relationships we build. We are dedicated to nurturing your workforce with talent that excels in their roles

Vision And Goals

Vision

Our vision is to become a leading provider of professional, high-quality personnel in the human services sector, empowering organisations to deliver unparalleled service in child protection, disability, aged care, and palliative care. We aspire to foster impactful community connections, enhance the quality of life for the individuals served by these agencies, and contribute significantly to a stronger, more caring society.

Goals

Deadly Community Connections is ambitiously aiming to become the top provider of skilled personnel for human service agencies across Queensland within the next five years. We're committed to high client satisfaction, striving to maintain a 90% satisfaction rate or higher. Additionally, we plan to form at least three strategic partnerships with similar agencies or organisations in the next two years to enhance our services.
